New Trustee Chairman, Judge Woodlee, Dies

Judge Glenn W. Woodlee, who was elected chairman of the Bryan Board of Trustees at the meeting of May 26, died in his sleep at his home in Dayton early on the morning of June 2. Although Judge Woodlee had not been in the best of health for several months, his death was altogether unexpected. He had been a Bryan trustee since 1950, vice chairman of the board since 1955, and chairman of the finance committee of the board for many years. At his election on May 26, he succeeded the late Dr. H. D. Long of Chattanooga as chairman of the board.

Judge Woodlee had been chancellor of the 12th chancery division of Tennessee for twenty-two years, having been appointed to that position in 1947 to fill out an unexpired term. He was subsequently elected and re-elected twice for eight year terms. Prior to his becoming chancellor of the 14-county chancery division, he served as district attorney general of the 18th Judicial Circuit of Tennessee from 1939-1947. He practiced law in Dayton from 1931, the year of his graduation from the University of Tennessee College of Law, until he became district attorney general.

Chancellor Woodlee heard many important cases during his long tenure on the bench, and he received numerous honors and distinctions during his career. The high regard in which he was held by the Tennessee Supreme Court is evidenced by the fact that very few of his decisions were ever reversed.

In the area of civic and community affairs, Judge Woodlee was equally distinguished. At the time of his death he was chairman of the board of directors of the Dayton Bank &

THREE ADDITIONAL DOCTORATES STRENGTHEN FACULTY

At press time Dr. Elizabeth Casale had been appointed associate professor of English, bringing the total of new faculty holding the earned doctorate to six for a net gain of four.

Five men holding the earned doctor's degree have been appointed to the faculty this fall. Two are replacements and the other three represent a gain of three doctors on the faculty.

Jensen

Heading the list is Dr. Irving L. Jensen, who is returning to Bryan for his fifteenth year after a year's absence at Trinity College, Deerfield, Ill. He holds the rank of full professor and will head the Bible department as formerly.

Trust Co., and a trustee of Carson-Newman College of Jefferson City, Tennessee. He was former president and a member of the board of governors of the University of Tennessee College of Law Alumni Association, and in 1967 he was selected by the University of Tennessee Bar Association for honorary membership in the Tennessee chapter of the Order of the Coif, the top honor society of the college of law. He was a director on the original board of trustees of the Rhea County Hospital, and he served on the boards of directors of a number of

Judge Glenn W. Woodlee

Dr. Daniel G. Rosenberger, who holds the doctor of education degree in professional education from New York University, will head the teacher education department. He has a strong minor in social science and will teach also in the history department. He has several years of teaching experience in both public and private secondary schools and colleges in New York State. For both Dr. and Mrs. Rosenberger the move to Dayton culminates a consideration of several years to locate in the South.

Hamilton

Dr. Charles G. Hamilton of Moorhead Miss., holds the Ph.D. degree in history from Vanderbilt University. He earned his bachelor's degree at Berea College and the master's degree at the University of Mississippi. He holds the rank of associate professor.

Dr. Walter Bauder of Iva, S.C., received his Ed.D. degree in science education with a major in chemistry at the University of Georgia this summer. He holds the rank of associate professor and will head the chemistry section of the natural science department. He received the B.S. degree from Taylor University, the M.Ed. from Clemson University, and he has had a year of graduate study at Columbia Bible College.

OFFICIAL RESIDENCE

Shown above is the new official residence of Bryan College constructed during the past academic year. Dr. and Mrs. Mercer and their three sons have been enjoying the new home since late June. Located in a wooded area behind the college chapel, the house is the project of the Rhea County Advisory Committee to the Board of Trustees, a group of local business and civic leaders which has been raising funds for the college since 1957. The financing of the project has been handled through gifts from the local community in a special fund separate from the operating and other funds of the college. Of the total cost of $50,000, all has been raised except $2700. Plans for the seven-room house were drawn by Mrs. Theodore C. Mercer and the builder was Harvie Lewis, Pikeville, Tenn. Yet to be completed is the landscaping and a ground floor apartment.

Officers of the thirty-two man Advisory Committee are: Sgt. Gene Bollinger, Tennessee Highway Patrol, Chairman; N. Q. Purser, Dayton clothing merchant, Vice Chairman; Don Holmes, Manager of M & J Supermarket, Secretary-Treasurer; and Martel Gamble, Spring City automobile dealer, and Robert Norris, pharmacist, co-chairmen of the merchants committee, which sponsored the "Bricks for Bryan" campaign this year.

New Budget Emphasizes Educational Program

The budget of $825,000 for 1969-70 adopted at the May 26 meeting of the board of trustees shows a sharp reduction in administrative expenditures and a corresponding increase in the proportion allocated to the educational program of the college. Of the $530,000 in the educational and general section of the budget, 45% is earmarked for instruction and an additional 7½% for the library.

The new budget is the result of a lengthy study and review of budget policies involving all key personnel of the college. Rising costs of operation and proliferation of expenses in all areas made necessary stringent budget economies designed to reduce the costs of administration and to provide a budget that is more realistic in terms of college income.

The budget expenditures in the various areas of College operation conform generally to the percentages recommended in the Sixty College Study and the more recent guide published by the American Council on Education. The instructional percentage of 45 is a major improvement over 34% in the year just ended. The library percentage reflects a continuing improvement in the increase from 5% three years ago to 6.75% last year to 7½% for the current year. These percentages are above the recommended 4.6% regarded as a satisfactory library expenditure.

All of these figures represent operating costs and do not include the capital outlay for the new library reading room and stack space, which add two additional floors to the original library opened in 1956, nor the cost of the academic complex providing completely new classrooms and science laboratories all with new equipment.

In other actions, the board

1) elected C. Philip Davis, college accountant, to the post of treasurer, to succeed Dr. Judson A. Rudd, President Emeritus, who has served as treasurer for the past nine years and had asked to be relieved of the position in order that he might devote time to the development program of the college;

2) changed the employment year to conform to the fiscal year of the college, July 1 to June 30;

3) approved a student recruitment incentive plan of 20% tuition credit for each full-time student recruited by an already enrolled student;

4) elected to the board Ian Hay '50, North American Director of the Sudan Interior Mission, Plainfield, N.J.;

5) approved 76 candidates for degrees as recommended by the faculty, for the largest graduating class in the history of the college;

6) adopted a revised statement of institutional purpose and educational objectives completing more than a year's study project.

College For A Day Program Announced

Friday, October 31, has been designated as COLLEGE FOR A DAY at Bryan this year. It is being announced through the channels of NEWSETTE to give a broader opportunity to all prospective students, as well as to pastors, parents, alumni, and friends of the College who will bring it to the attention of other college prospects.

All high school students or graduates who are interested in considering a Christian liberal arts education are invited to attend, but by reservation only. This is an opportunity to see Bryan in action and gain a panoramic view of the spiritual life, academic program, and cultural and sports events. The registration fee of $5, payable in advance, covers registration fee, two nights in the dormitory, attendance at Friday classes, soccer game, track meet, and a musical program in the evening. Meals for prospective students will be available in the dining room at student rates: breakfast 52¢, lunch 72¢, dinner 98¢.

Arrival time is scheduled for Thursday evening, October 30, in time for dinner at 6:00 p.m., and departure time is after breakfast on Saturday, November 1. (Individuals may adjust their plans as necessary, but should include as much of the Friday schedule as possible.)

Travelers to Dayton may come by Greyhound bus, U. S. highway 27 auto route, or be met at the Chattanooga airport for a special rate of $5 by advance notification.

For adults who accompany student visitors, a list of motels will be furnished and reservations should be made in advance. Professional Food-Service which operates the College cafeteria welcomes visitors to the dining hall for meals at reasonable rates.

FACULTY MEMBERS PURSUE ADVANCED DEGREES

Several Bryan faculty members are continuing their own pursuit of higher education even while maintaining their responsibilities as teachers.

James Greasby, head of the music department, took another major step in the work on his doctor's degree this summer when he organized and trained a choir through the cooperation of other music students at the University of California in Los Angeles for the performance of sacred music in arrangements by Renaissance composers.

Blair Bentley, associate professor of history, continues his research on the life and work of Andrew Johnson, governor of Tennessee in 1853-57, to fulfill the requirements for a Ph.D. in history at the University of Tennessee.

Also a Ph.D. candidate at U.T. is Richard Cornelius, head of the English department, who is doing his research on Christopher Marlowe's use of the Bible.

Russell Porcella, instructor in biology at Bryan with an M.S. from U.T., began his doctoral program in botany there this summer.

William Boyd, assistant professor of music, is working on his doctoral program at Temple University, from which school he already holds the Master of Music degree.

Thomas Rose, assistant professor in business, is giving full time this summer to a graduate program in economics at the University of Tennessee and will continue in a part-time schedule this fall while teaching at Bryan, with a view to completing the master's degree next summer.

Wayne Dixon, athletic director and instructor in health and physical education, has completed his second summer's work toward the Master of Science Teaching degree in biology at Middle Tennessee State University in Murfreesboro. He anticipates the completion of degree requirements next summer. His graduate work is sponsored through a National Science Foundation grant.

Glen H. Liebig, assistant professor of Spanish, recently completed his graduate study in Spanish for the Master of Arts degree at the University of Tennessee.

Mr. William Ketchersid has resigned from his position in the his-

Bible Conference Highlights Summer Activities

Approximately 80 guests registered for the summer Bible conference in addition to a similar number of area friends who attended sessions of the week-long program, July 19-25. The daily attendance of children and teenagers was between 60 and 70 for morning sessions which provided separate classes for each age group, plus an evening meeting geared also at the youth level.

For the adult services members of the class of 1959 attending their tenth anniversary were speakers at morning meetings and in the evening the two speakers were Dr. Karlis Leyasmeyer of Philadelphia, Pa., who spoke out of his personal experience and study on the relation of current day trends and the Christian message, and the Rev. Cary Perdue, a Bryan alumnus of '58, who concluded the sessions with his Bible expositions on the believer's relationship to Christ and the resulting responsibility.

The dates for next summer's conference will be July 24-31.

Gospel Messengers

The Gospel Messenger team of six students has just completed a nine-week tour in fifteen states of the Southeast and Midwest. They assisted in a youth conference in Miami, Florida; Youth for Christ rallies in Erie, Pa., Toledo, Ohio, and St. Louis, Mo.; a coffee house fellowship in Baltimore, Md.; informal picnic suppers; as well as the usual Sunday or week night services. Both their musical ministry and their personal testimonies as well as their conduct were commended by a number of pastors and others who took occasion to express appreciation for their services.

European Travelers

Three continuing students were engaged in missionary activity this summer in European countries under Operation Mobilization—Lynne Stevens was there for the second summer which was linked by a continuing period of service with a student team that visited colleges and universities throughout the continent to give a Christian witness; Joyce Lukridge spent a second summer in literature distribution and personal witness; and Dennis Jensen was a novice this summer in overseas travel and foreign service.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schmickl, who have made Dayton, Tenn., their retirement home and who have been affiliated at Bryan through Mr. Schmickl's assistance on the buildings and grounds staff and through their daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Matthes, a faculty wife and also a student, took a three-week tour of several European countries and included visits to a number of Christian friends, mission headquarters, and Bible institutes.

tory department to pursue a doctoral program at the University of Georgia in Athens. He expects to have a graduate assistantship in western civilization during the course of his own study for at least two years.

Administrators Study

In addition to faculty study, a number of administrators have participated this summer in special courses related to their departments.

Mrs. Mayme Sheddian, student aid administrator, took a two-week training course for financial aid administrators at Middle Tennessee State University in July, for which she received two hours of college graduate study credit.

Walter Seera, dean of students, was enrolled at the University of Tennessee in Chattanooga for a summer school course in introduction to statistics. In addition he went for two weeks to Michigan to take a graduate course listed as a new dean's workshop at the Michigan State University at East Lansing under Dr. Lewis Stamatokos.

Philip Davis, treasurer, attended a graduate level business officers short course at the University of Nebraska at Omaha for two hours credit with plans to return next summer for the second section.

President Theodore Mercer and Trustee Dr. J. W. McKinney of Memphis, Tenn., participated in the Council for the Advancement of Small Colleges workshop held in Lansing, Mich., to study president-trustee relations.

DOCTORATES ADDED

Dr. R. Allan Killen, of St. Louis, Mo., holds the Th.M. degree from Dallas Theological Seminary and the Th.D. from New University, Amsterdam, Netherlands. He has been appointed associate professor in the Division of Biblical Studies to teach Bible and philosophy part-time. He will serve as pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church in Dayton during the coming year.

Other faculty appointees include Manning Seil of Spring City, who holds the M.S. degree in economics from the University of Illinois and will teach part-time in the business department, and Miss Emlee Taylor, a Covenant College faculty member who will teach two courses in French for Bryan while Bryan faculty member Mervin Ziegler will teach two speech courses at Covenant.

corporations. He was a native of Altamont, Grundy County, Tennessee.

Judge Woodlee's relationship to Bryan College for nearly twenty years was characterized by unselfish and effective service and generous financial support. In 1959 he spearheaded the financial campaign which resulted in the establishment of the college endowment fund with assets of $300,000. His will sets up a trust of his residual estate, which is reserved to Mrs. Woodlee in her lifetime and afterwards the income is to be divided between Bryan and Carson-Newman for scholarships, designated especially for the support of students from Grundy and Rhea counties.

Mrs. Woodlee, the widow, the former Sarah Ewing, is a founder of Bryan College by virtue of the participation of her family in the original subscriptions made for the establishment of the college. She shared her husband's interest in the affairs of the college. In all of his accomplishments as a civic and professional leader and as a citizen and personal friend, Judge Woodlee was a man of wisdom, dignity, generosity, and sincere Christian belief and practice, all happily bound together in a disposition characterized by friendliness and a sense of humor. The hospitality of the Woodlee home was outstanding. He is already keenly missed in a wide circle of friends.

Fall Enrollment Prospects Keep Pace with Last Year

The fall term at Bryan opens the first week in September with faculty workshop on September 2 and 3, new students arrival on the 6th and 7th, and registration on the 8th and 9th.

The enrollment picture, which is not complete at press time, compares favorably with last fall's registration of 341. The total 1968-69 registration including the summer school and part-time students rose to 413, or a full-time equivalent of approximately 360.

Among the new students for this fall are a significant number of thirty-six transfer students from sixteen Bible colleges, institutes, and other Christian liberal arts colleges to represent a quarter of the new student enrollment. The largest number from any one such institution is nine from Moody Bible Institute. Other schools represented by two or more transfers include Practical Bible Training School; Oak Hills, Appalachian, and Southland Bible Institutes; Tennessee Temple Schools, and Grand Rapids School of Bible and Music.

Also significant in the new fall enrollment are nine former students who are returning after an absence of a semester or more, seven who have one or both parents that are Bryan alumni, and fifteen whose older brother or sister were students before them. Five are Vietnam veterans including one former Bryanite, Robert (Frank) Heath, who served with the Green Berets. Two are trustee daughters—Lynne Stevens, daughter of Rev. W. Earle Stevens, who recently moved from Chattanooga to become pastor of the First Evangelical Church in Memphis; and Betsy Senter, daughter of Rev. Mark Senter of Greenville, S.C. Carol Cowden, a new freshman, is the granddaughter of Mrs. E. B. Arnold, secretary to the board of trustees.

Graduates Honored

The 1969 graduating class of 76 seniors was addressed by Dr. John P. Cummer of Orlando, Fla., at the 36th Bryan commencement. Of these graduates 38 received the bachelor of arts degree, 25 the bachelor of science, and 13 (3 B.A. and 10 B.S.) completed work during the summer. Five of these graduates also received the Evangelical Teacher Training Association diploma representing their preparation to teach other Christian workers in churches and Sunday schools. They are Jean Blount, Hampton, Va.; Alice Colvin, Dayton, Tenn.; Geraldine Penz, Chicago, Ill.; Donald Tack, Delton, Mich.; and Ray Parker, Winston-Salem, N.C.

Students graduating with academic honors included Dan Tilly of Jacksonville, Fla., with magna cum laude honor and five with cum laude as follows: James Comstock, Salem, Va.; Theodore C. Mercer, Jr., Dayton, Tenn.; Donald Tack, Delton, Mich.; Sally Carlson, Gilbert, Minn.; and Linda Summers Chatten, Spring City, Tenn. Miss Carlson and Mrs. Chatten as well as Carol Lomas, Orlando, Fla., were also recognized for having achieved 99% in their advanced Graduate Record Examination. With a slightly higher score in the same percentile was Karen Dobbs Shafer, Orlando, Florida, who took first place honors in the advanced G.R.E.

Graduates Jon Abercrombie of Atlanta, Ga., and Patty Collins of Huntsville, Ala., were awarded the P. A. Boyd prizes for students who manifest nobility of character and an active identification in constructive work for the best interests of student life. The F. R. Rogers Bible award was given to Lloyd Nelson of San Bernardino, Cal., and a similar music award to Phyllis Horton Stone of Knoxville, Tenn. Ted Mercer, Jr., of Dayton, was recognized for maintaining the highest average in history courses and for achieving the highest score on the area Graduate Record Exam in natural science, social science and humanities—in fact, it was the highest score ever made by a Bryan graduate.

Three faculty prizes were given to graduates as follows: highest scholastic record during attendance at Bryan to Dan Tilly; highest degree of faithfulness and loyalty to the college to Phyllis Horton Stone; and most progress during the years at Bryan to Rosalee de Rosset, of Evans City, Pa.

An annual award made by Mrs. E. B. Arnold to student teachers with the highest rating was shared this year by Barbara McCormack, Daniels, W. Va., and Jim Comstock, Salem, Va., who became Mr. and Mrs. Comstock in an August wedding.

Donald Tack was given the Testimony and Influence prize through the choice of the freshman class as the one exerting the strongest influence upon them.

Missions in Action

Ernest '52 and Lois (Cartright) x'54 Lee spent the summer at their home in Nha Trang, Vietnam, with their three sons and daughter, Karen. Ernie has the responsibility of overseeing a literacy program for eight languages.

Gordon and Thelma (Andrews) '53 Svelmoe are seeing the fruit of their translation efforts in the Mansaka language in the Philippines. Gordon recently made a trip through the area to distribute copies of the Gospel of Mark.

Paul '54 and Mary (Wiggins) x'56 Mars-teller have moved to Belem, Para, Brazil, to a small organized base of Wycliffe Bible Translators. Philip and Mark attend a mission-operated school. Paul flies from the large city airport to serve tribal teams in interior Brazil.

David '57 and Kay (Temple) '55 Henry traveled by river boat to Allakaket, Alaska, visiting Indians in the area to distribute an 85-page book of ten stories from the Gospel of John along with an Indian reader and dictionary.

Fred and Delores (Yockey) '56 Plastow rejoiced in Morocco on February 7 when the first Berber radio broadcast was aired from Monte Carlo to the Berbers who number half of the 14,000,000 people in Morocco, where other missionary activity of public meetings and literature distribution have been curtailed.

Charles (Spud) '56 and Charlotte x'56 Willoughby have been encouraged by response to the showing of Christian films in many small towns and country churches. They are thrilled at the result of both the Oana Bible Institute and the extension courses in Colombia.

Wilbur '56 and Ida Lou Pickering have been able to express the Good News in the Apurina language with the aid of Gospel Recordings and expect soon to begin translating the Scriptures for this tribe in Brazil. Wilbur was appointed to the five-member executive committee for the Brazil branch of Wycliffe Bible translators.

Edwin '57 and Doris Svedberg were recently given some new furniture as a wedding anniversary gift. Ed is helping in construction of the airplane hangar. Doris is typing portions of Mark in the Muinnare language in Colombia as they work under the Jungle Aviation and Radio Service of Wycliffe. Their oldest son, Gordon, is taking high school work by correspondence.

Jack x'58 and Lora (Clingan) '57 Spurlock are new missionaries with Berean Mission for Congo. Jack completed training as a pilot and has secured a 1965 Cessna U-206 for use on the field. Their four children—Bob, 15, Sherry, 14, Rickey, 11, and Sandra, 7—will accompany them.

Spurlocks

Marilyn Laszlo '59 reports on her first few months of missionary work living with a new tribe in West Irian under Wycliffe Bible Translators—complications such as mildewed clothes, rusty can opener, wormy flour, droves of bugs coming through the screens, ear fungus, anemia, and 1200 patients calling for medical treatment!

While on Furlough—

From Kenya, Robert '44 and Alice (Tucker) '47 St. John visited the Holy Land, Switzerland, and England. They crossed the Atlantic on the USS United States.

From Japan, Wanda Lautzenheiser '49 visited friends and relatives while making her home in Berne, Ind. She has been engaged in bookstore work in Japan.

From Brazil, Norma Sweeney '53 attended the Latin-American Child Evangelism Fellowship conference in Lima, Peru, on her way from Fortaleza, Brazil, to Gainesville, Fla.

Miss Lola Baker receives diploma from Dr. Clyde M. Narramore.

From Grenada, Iola Baker sp. '50 took a one-month course in Pastoral Counseling at Narramore Christian Foundation in Rosemead, Calif. She planned to return to Grenada in early summer.

From France, John '54 and Janice (Brown) '53 Miesel will reside in Randolph, N.Y., through December when they will return to Macon, France, to resume print shop work under Unevangelized Fields Mission.

From Philippines, Roger and Naomi (Hildebrand) '55 Walkwitz took courses at the University of Hawaii where Roger finished the M.Ed. degree. Roger began teaching July 22 at Faith Academy, a school for missionaries' children in Manila.

From Taiwan, Ann Frazer '59 will teach in the Brethren Elementary and Junior High school of Whittier, Calif. She has been teaching in Morrison Academy under The Evangelical Alliance Mission in Taiwan.

LIFE INSURANCE— AN EFFECTIVE TOOL IN ESTATE PLANNING

Life insurance can be an effective tool in planning and conserving your estate, especially if you are interested in providing continuing support to the institutions to which you have been making contributions. The Federal Government encourages gifts of life insurance to charitable institutions by allowing substantial income and estate tax savings. Gifts of life insurance have some special features that appeal to prospective donors.

Immediate Cash Gift

The proceeds (face value of the policy) of a life insurance gift are paid in full and in cash immediately upon the death of the donor. Since life insurance usually passes to the beneficiary outside the estate, there is no delay awaiting probate and settlement of the estate. Probate and administration expenses are also avoided.

Income Tax Savings

A gift of life insurance to a charitable institution, such as Bryan College, achieves substantial income tax savings during the donor's lifetime. The current cash value of the policy at the time the gift is made, or the annual premiums, are deductible as a charitable gift in the year in which the gift is made. Such a gift is, of course, subject to the usual contribution limitation of 20 or 30 percent of adjusted gross income, with the five-year carryover privilege for any excess in the year a paid-up or partially paid-up policy is given. Current annual premium payments are usually subject to the 20 percent of adjusted-gross-income limitation, with no five-year carryover privilege. However, in some circumstances it may be possible to deduct annual premiums, also, up to 30 percent, with the five-year carryover privilege for any excess in the current year.

Suppose a friend of Bryan names the College as the irrevocable beneficiary and assigns ownership to the College of a policy with a face value of $10,000 payable to the College upon the donor's death and a present value of $4,000. The donor may deduct $4,000 as a charitable gift. If he is in the 25 percent tax bracket, his gift of insurance will bring him an income tax saving of $1,000 that year, which means that the actual cost of making the gift is reduced to $3,000. The five-year carryover privilege would be allowed for any amount in excess of 30 percent of his adjusted gross income. Annual premiums thereafter also will be deductible as outlined above.

Estate Tax Savings

Life insurance proceeds payable to a qualified charitable institution are completely removed from the donor's taxable estate. This could effect substantial savings in estate taxes, depending on the size of the estate. Charitable gifts have the effect of being taken off the top of the estate, removing them from the highest estate tax brackets.

Other Advantages

Sizeable gifts can be given in small amounts and built up over a long period of time. Life insurance gifts do not diminish the estate but rather create what amounts to an additional, separate estate. Frequently the size of the final gift is actually larger than the original cost to the donor. A life insurance gift may be set up in many different ways to fit your exact giving desires and financial capabilities. Since life insurance transfers are not a matter of public record, such gifts can be given without the publicity that often accompanies estate settlements. Finally, policies that have already served their original purpose may now be an excellent resource for making a charitable gift. If you have life insurance for which you no longer have a real need, it could be invested now in the training of young men and women at Bryan College for service as Christian leaders of tomorrow.

Gift of New Policy

The gift of a new policy irrevocably naming Bryan College, or any such charitable institution, as the beneficiary, with full ownership of the policy assigned to the institution qualifies the donor for an income tax charitable contribution deduction for the cost of the policy or for the premiums as they are paid. If future circumstances necessitate your discontinuing the premium payments, Bryan College, as owner and beneficiary of the policy, can:

- Continue to pay the premiums so that it will eventually receive the full face value of the policy.
- Take a paid-up policy for an amount to be determined by the cash value of the policy at the time the paid-up policy is elected.
- Receive the cash surrender value of the policy in the year the payments are discontinued.

Gift of Presently Owned Policy

The value of certain insurance policies for which your need over the years has disappeared could be substantially reduced by estate tax if they remain a part of your estate at your death. If you plan to make a gift to Bryan College in your will, you may wish to consider a present gift of your life insurance policy, which may in effect give you a double tax saving through a current charitable deduction on your income tax and reduced estate taxes by removing the insurance from your taxable estate. Your income tax contribution in the year the policy is donated is approximately its present cash surrender value, and each year the additional premiums you pay would qualify for the charitable contribution deduction.

As with the purchase of a new policy described above, you would not be obligated to continue paying the premiums. If you discontinue the premiums, the College could surrender the policy for the cash value, continue to pay the premiums itself, or elect to receive a paid-up policy in a reduced amount determined by its cash value at the time the premiums are discontinued.

Gift of Fully Paid-Up Policy

If you wish to contribute an existing paid-up policy on which no further premiums are due, your charitable contribution is what it would cost you to replace the policy at your age and state of health when you make the gift.

Other Ways to Give Insurance

- Name Bryan College as co-beneficiary to share in the policy proceeds.
- Name Bryan College as secondary beneficiary, permitting the College to receive the proceeds after the death of the first beneficiary.
- Name Bryan College as remainder beneficiary to receive the proceeds after the deaths of the primary and secondary beneficiaries.
- Name Bryan College as residual beneficiary, which means that if you elect some retirement option settlement, the College would receive upon your death the residue under the guaranteed cash payment contract.
- Assign your annual dividends to Bryan College, a systematic way to give tax-free income which you may also deduct as gifts on your income tax return.
- Sell your endowment-type policy to Bryan College at your cost, a type of "Bargain sale gift" similar to selling stocks at original cost to avoid large capital gains tax.
- Buy a policy to replace in your estate money or property you have given, a method that merits serious consideration by those who want to give without depleting what their heirs will get at the time of death. It may be a way to by-pass capital gains taxes, depending on the final outcome of tax reforms that are now under consideration.

- Buy a policy to protect a large pledge you have made.
- Insure the bequests in your will and deduct the premiums now.
- Give the proceeds of an existing policy, reserving the income for your survivor, through the College's gift annuity program. The amount of the annual annuity payments will be based on the survivor's age at the death of the donor.
- Take out a policy, if you are uninsurable, on the life of another person and assign it to Bryan College, an excellent way to give when you do not qualify personally for insurance. Premiums are tax deductible just as with other policies assigned to a recognized charity.

This information bulletin is published quarterly as an addendum to the NEWSETTE to provide friends of Bryan College with information that will assist them in their Christian stewardship. This section is perforated so that it may be easily detached and kept for future reference to information on estate planning, tax changes, and many other topics related to Christian giving.
